Unless we miss our guess a genuine treat is in store for the patrons of the Grand, commencing Sunday. The attraction will be the famous Smart Set company, an organization of colored fur makers who have already won a place in the theatrical firmament. As in former years the production, which is entitled "George Washington Bullion Abroad," will be headed by Salem Tutt Whitney, a comedian who can be depended upon to entertain. The offering is described as a musical comedy in three acts. It was written by Mr. Whitney himself, and if immediate indorsement is any criterion it is safe to say that the inimitable star in this line shines equally as well as an author. He has furnished a part for himself that permits his talents plenty of scope. Everything that he says or does is the signal for genuine laughter, in fact, the offering is a scream from start to finish. Bright lines and tuneful songs predominate, then again the cast is well chosen, combining in its entirety a vehicle destined to establish new records for continuous hilarity and fun. One is bound to be amused as well as convulsed. There are specialties and surprises galore and features that are not to be found in any other show. All told, the combination is high class throughout.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of our beloved father, Andrew Nelson, who departed this life one year ago, Jan. 20, 1915.

They folded your hands,
Dear father of ours,
And laid you away mid beautiful flowers.
And we knew every look on your beautiful face
That no other father could take your place.

When Greek Meets Greek.
Two Greek women were haled to court for trying to dissect each other. The chief witness for the prosecution was a typical New Yorker, and in the choice of New Yorkesque he gave his testimony. "That there woman," he said, pointing to one of the women, "rushed across the street and hit this here woman," indicating the other one, "over the bean with a bushel measure. Then this here guy, 'carbolic,' meaning the first woman, 'grabbed a club and smashed this here think over the nut with it.' The lawyer for the defendants wanted to know the meaning of 'a guy,' 'a gink,' 'a nut,' and 'a bean.' After being put wise, he rebuked the witness because he had no sense of dignity. 'Dignity,' he snorted. 'I've got dignity to burn, but I ain't familiar with these here Greek words, and I ain't going to throw no bluff for no lawyer.' What's that lawyer expect anyway, when Greek meets Greek?—New York Times.

Kings and Shaving.
The classic case of a king who knew better than to let anybody else shave him is that of Dionysius the Elder, tyrant of Syracuse, who appears to have been unable to shave himself; for he is said to have resorted to the uncomfortable device of singeing off his beard with hot walnut shells, says the London Chronicle. We may suspect that Napoleon's was another case of the kind. Rogers asked Talleyrand whether Napoleon shaved himself. "Yes," replied Talleyrand; "one born to be a king has someone to shave him; but they who acquire kingdoms shave themselves." That way of putting it pleasantly emphasizes the practical superiority of the parvenu to the hopeless spoiled child of heredity; but prudens probably entered into the matter also, if Talleyrand's statement was correct.

Helpful Hint.
An emergency bag is a very convenient addition to the medicine chest; it should be made of two strips of heavy linen or denim, about six or seven inches deep, the back piece to be made about 18 inches long and the front 27 inches; the two strips should be bound together at the ends and across the bottom, then stitched to form several pockets (eight or nine); a flap should be buttoned over the top and each pocket labeled with indelible ink. One pocket should contain rolls of bandages, another bits of old soft linen, another lint from worn-out napkins; other pockets should be made to hold bottles of arnica, witch-hazel, carbolic, Jamaica ginger, absorbent cotton, a box of healing salve, a piece of castile soap, and one-half dozen fingers cut from old, large kid gloves.

"Here's an item," said the telegraph editor, "about a New York man giving his wife a $50,000 tiara. That will make every man's wife in America want something of the kind." "Kill the item," directed the proprietor. "What's the use of running a newspaper if you can't occasionally help your fellow men?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Sex the Key to the Bible
The World's Three Greatest Books
By Sidney C. Tapp, Ph.D.
"The Truth About the Bible," about five hundred pages, $3.00. "The Bible as a Man and a Woman," three hundred pages, $2.00. "Sexology of the Bible," over one hundred and seventy-five pages, $2.00. All cloth-bound. These books treat of the sex of the Bible, and that the Bible is a book of sex and a book of spirit, and that sex is the dividing line between the physical and the spiritual. They show the disease, sickness and insanity are within the sex, and that sex-lust was the original sin and cause of death. They are arresting the attention of the medical, scientific, philosophical and theological worlds and people of all classes as no other books of modern times, and will probably do more to shape the thoughts of the human race than any books ever written in the history of the world.
"I would rather be the author of the Truth About the Bible," by Sidney C. Tapp, than to be the President of the United States. His sex interpretation of the Bible, as therein contained, is so daring and his conclusions are so unanswerable that the human intellect staggers under the ideas presented. For it is the world's greatest book, the Bible, as therein contained, is so sex interpretation of the Bible will live until time shall be no more. Republics may decay and Empires may decay, but the ideas presented by the author in these books on the Bible will never die."
—Prof. J. S. Harris, A. M.
"Mr. Tapp's works on the Bible will do more to empty our jails, insane institutions and hospitals than any other idea that has ever been given to the world, in our opinion, to say nothing of the great good morally and spiritually, that they will do the human race, the civilized and the uncivilized."
